Simile and Metaphor—What's the Difference? | Grammarly

A metaphor is a figure of speech that describes something (an object or an action) in a way that isn't literally true, but uses comparison or symbolism to describe something. Metaphors are a great way to add more color to your writing! Metaphors show up all over the place, especially in poetry and literature.

What is A Metaphor? —Definition and Examples | Grammarly

A metaphor is a figure of speech that asserts that a thing is something that it literally is not (e.g., she's a fox). Metaphors are also created with 'non-literal' words (e.g., She sliced him down with her words). They have utility in creative writing and business writing. This page includes a test on metaphors and lots of examples.
